Intro: Inside the minds of the Greatest investors.

1. Chapter one: The man who cloned Warren Buffet.

Example: Mr. Mohnish Pabrai

1. How to turn $1 million into $1 Billion.
2. The Laws of investing
3. Say No to Almost Everything
4. The Guru. His Disciple, and their $650,000 Lunch
5. Welcome to the kidnapping capital of india.
6. Lesson from Mohnish
   1. Rule 1: Clone like crazy
   2. Rule 2: Hang out with people who are better than you
   3. Rule 3: treat life as a game, not as a survival contest or a battle to the death
   4. Rule 4: Be in alignment with who you are. don't do or what's not right for you.
   5. Rule 5: Live by an inner scoreboard. don't worry about what others think of you; don't be defined by external validation.

" Take a simple idea and take it seriously "

2. Chapter two: The willingness to Be lonely.

Example: Sir John Templeton.

1. The making of a maverick.
2. The Bet of a century.
3. Six guiding principles for the non friable investor

1. Most people get led astray by emotions in investing. They get led astray by being Excessively careless

Author, Wisher, Happier — William Green.

2. Beware of your own ignorance.

3. You should diversify broadly to protect yourself from your own fallibility.

4. Successful investing requires patience.

5. The Best way to find bargains is to study.

6. Not to chase fads.

2. master of his domain.

Book: Wisdom from world religions:

Pathways toward Heaven on Earth.

3. Chapter three: Everything changes.

Example: Howard marks.

1. First. be Lucky second Be Humble.
2. know what you Don't know
3. Find order with in chos.
4. most of the time, the End of the world doesn't happen.
5. The question is. Do you push the limits.

4. The Resilient Investors.

1. to lag is to suffer.
2. The unkindness of strangers.
3. The long game
4. Everything Fades.
5. Life is not simple.
6. Five Rule for Resilience

1. We need to respect uncertainty
2. imperative to reduce or eliminates debt, avoid leverage and beware of Excessive Expenses

3. Finding on short term gains or beating bench marks, we should place greater emphasis on becoming shocks resistant.

4. Beware of overconfidence and complacency

5. aware of our exposure and to risk and should always require a margin of safety.

5. Chapter Five: Simplicity is the ultimate sophistication

1. The simplicity that lies on the other side of complexity.

2. Will Danoff's Source Saule.

3. Effluent markets, crazy people, and Dynamic

4. Unfair Bets and Ugly Ducklings.

5. Cheap + Good = The holy Grill

6. Do you Believe in magic?

1. Stocks are ownership shares of business which must be valued.

2. They should be bought only when they trade for less than they are worth

3. In the long run, the market is rational and will reflect the fair values of those businesses.

7. 4 simple lessons.

1. Sensible strategy that's good enough to achieve your financial goals

2. Strategy should be so simple and logical that understand it.

3. Ask yourself whether you truly have the skills and temperament to bear the market.

4. Rember that you can be rich and successfully investor without attempting to beat the market.

6. Chapter six: Nick's Zakis Excellent Adventure.

1. Never mind the Bollocks.
2. A House Built on Rock
3. 5 lessions with a long shelf life
   1. pursue quality as a guiding principle in Business, investing, and life - a moral and intellectual commitment
   2. idea of focusing on whatever has the longest shelf life, while always downplaying the ephermal.
   3. Realization that one particular business model scale economies shared - creates a virtuous cycle that the generate sustainable wealth.
   4. Behave ethically or unscrupulation
   5. Avoid short-termism and instant gratification.

7. Chapter Seven: High-performance Habits.

1. The Aggregation of marginal gains.
2. Bring the heat
3. very few people could be married to me
4. The Art of subtraction

8. Chapter Eight: Don't be a fool.

1. The non-idiot's guide to life.
2. The collector of inanities.
3. Beware of Brain.
4. Lessons of a lifetime

9. Epilogue: Beyond Rich.

1. The Freedom to work until you're 109 year old
2. Ability to take pain.
3. Stocks and Stoics
4. "I'm the Richest guy in the world"

10. Acknowledgement.